Report on Industrial Visit to Kannan Devan Tea Factory

On February 16, 2024, a group of 25 students, accompanied by Dr. Renjith R and Ms. Amrutha KV, visited the Kannan Devan Tea Factory in Munnar, Kerala. The primary objective of the visit was to provide students with practical insights into the tea production process, bridging the gap between theoretical knowledge and real-world application. The visit was meticulously planned to ensure that students could observe and understand each stage of tea manufacturing, from leaf plucking to packaging.

Upon arrival at the factory at 9:00 AM, the group was warmly welcomed by the factory staff. The Factory Manager, conducted an introductory session detailing the history and operations of the Kannan Devan Tea Factory. This was followed by a comprehensive tour of the factory, where students observed various stages of tea production including withering, rolling, fermentation, drying, sorting, and grading. Each stage was explained in detail by the staff, highlighting the importance of maintaining quality and the use of advanced technology in the process.

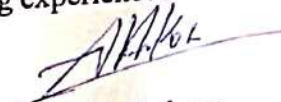

A particularly engaging part of the visit was the interactive Q&A session with the factory staff. This session provided students the opportunity to ask questions and discuss their observations, gaining deeper insights into the operational challenges and quality control measures within the tea industry. The staff shared their experiences and knowledge, emphasizing the significance of sustainable practices and the technological advancements adopted by the factory.

The visit concluded at 4:30 PM with students and faculty expressing their gratitude to the Kannan Devan Tea Factory staff for their hospitality and informative tour. The experience was highly beneficial for the students, offering them a firsthand look at the intricacies of tea production and enhancing their understanding of the industry. Dr. Renjith R and Ms. Amrutha KV noted the visit's success in providing practical exposure and recommended similar educational trips in the future to further enrich the students' learning experiences.

One Day National Media Seminar

Tracing the Evolution of the Indian Mediascape

February 27, 2024

The Dept of English, Prajyoti Niketan College has organised a National Media Seminar on February 27, 2024. Ms Jeetha Johny (Head, Dept of English) welcomed the gathering. Dr Fr Harshajan Pazhayattil, Founder Manager and Director delivered the Presidential Address. Dr M P Surendran, Former Deputy Director, Mathrubhumi inaugurated the Seminar and addressed the gathering. Dr Binu P Chacko (Principal) and Mr Laju Xavier (PTA Vice President) offered felicitations. Dr Simi Varghese (Programme Co-ordinator) proposed the Vote of Thanks. After the official meeting, Mr M P Surendran handled the topic, 'The Fate of Fourth Estate Today' which was followed by an elaborate interactive session.

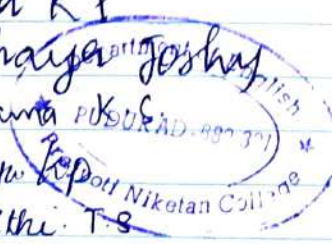

Dr Shashi Tharoor (Member of Parliament) delivered the Keynote Address. He spoke at length about the changing media scenario and its prospects and pitfalls. He stressed on the responsibility of media to scrutinise elected members' conduct and ensure that those in power stay accountable to those who placed them there. Moreover media's overemphasis on sensationalism trivialises public discourse and diverts its attention away from serious issues. His session has thrown insights into the changing landscape of Indian media and suggested practical tips for revamping the field of journalism. Several questions were asked by the delegates and students of the one day Seminar. The question, 'if given a chance, what would be the five questions you would ask Narendra Modi?' from a student sparked great interest among the audience. Mr Favour Francis (Creative Director, Oaktree Brandwagon) had taken a session on 'The Art and Science of Naming a Brand'. His power point session on various interesting facets about brands had been really beneficial for the delegates. They also put forth relevant questions to Mr Favour Francis. Ms Dilruba Fayaz, Faculty of Journalism, St Joseph's College (Autonomous), Irinjalakuda, Ms Athira Prakash, student from NSS College, Ottapalam and Mr Joel (Naipunnya College, Pongam) delivered their feedback about the seminar. Certificates were distributed to all the participants. . Media personnel representing different media, political leaders, teachers and students participated in the one day national media seminar.

THE ROLE OF THE SWISS POSTBUS

Switzerland's postbuses are much more than just a means of public transportation.

The Swiss PostBus Limited is the largest of the country's 78 coach companies. Administered by the Motor Services Department of the Post Office, it carries over 120 million passengers each year and is carefully integrated with other public transport services: trains, boats and mountain cableways. The Swiss transportation system resembles a tree, with the larger branches representing federal and private railways, the smaller branches being the coaches, and the twigs being the urban transit operators running trams, city buses, boats, chairlifts and so on. But the trunk that holds the tree together is the vast postbus network, without which the whole network would not function.

There isn't an inhabited place in Switzerland that cannot be reached by some sort of public transport. Federal law and the Swiss Constitution stipulate that every village with a population greater than 40 is entitled to regular bus services. The frequency of these services is directly related to population density. Timetables are put together four years in advance, and seldom change. If a new route is to be introduced, the population of the area affected is invited to vote in a referendum.

At times, postbuses are the main – sometimes the only – links between settlements. These coaches, often with a trailer in tow to increase their capacity, are a common sight in high-altitude regions, and their signature sound – part of Rossini's William Tell Overture, played by the drivers on three-tone post horns with electrical

The three-tone horns can still be used to 'talk' to post offices (and each other) from a distance. By altering the combination of the tones, a driver can announce 'departure of post', 'arrival of post', 'arrival of special post', and so on – so much more romantic and often more reliable than radio or mobile phones. This musical 'language' started in the mid-nineteenth century, when the coach drivers could also blow their horns a certain number of times on approaching the station to indicate the number of horses needing to be fed, giving the stationmaster time to prepare the fodder.

The postbus history goes back to 1849, when the Swiss postal service was made a monopoly. The role of today's modern yellow buses was, back then, played by horse-drawn carriages (or in winter by sleighs, in order to travel on snow), which were the same colour. By 1914, eight years after the first motor coaches were introduced, there were still 2,500 horses, 2,231 coaches (or carriages) and 1,059 sleighs in service.

After the First World War, Swiss Post bought a fleet of decommissioned military trucks which were converted into postbuses, but it was not until 1961 that the last horse-drawn coach was replaced with a motorised version.

Today, the Swiss Post Office boasts one of the world's most advanced coach fleets, including cell models and the world's first driverless bus. This was launched in 2015 in the town of Sion, the capital of the canton of Valais, one of the 26 cantons, or administrative regions, that make up the country.

Postbuses often go to places that other means of transport cannot reach. Most of the drivers therefore see themselves as educators and tour guides. Although it's not in their job description, they're likely to point out the sights – waterfalls, gorges, and so on – and are always ready to pull over for a photo opportunity.

Switzerland's longest postbus journey, and one of the highest, crosses four mountain passes – an eight-hour trip undertaken by a single postbus. The route goes through several cantons; two languages (German and Italian); all four seasons – from burning sunshine to showers and heavy snowfalls; and countless places of interest. One of the passes, the Gotthard, is often described as 'the People's Road', probably because it connects the German-speaking canton of Uri with Italian-speaking Ticino. Like Switzerland itself, postbuses 'speak' all four state languages: German, French, Italian and Romansh – and, by law, their automated intercom announcements are given in the language of whichever canton the bus is currently passing through.

Irrespective of their previous driving experience, drivers undergo lots of training. During the first year, they have to drive postbuses under the supervision of a more experienced driver. Only after two years of safe driving in the valleys can they be pronounced ready for a mountain bus.

Some routes are not at all busy, with the bus often carrying just two or three passengers at a time. But for most people living in small mountain villages, the postbus is of the utmost importance. It not only carries the villagers to town and back, it takes village children to and from school, delivers mail, transports milk from the village farms down to the valley, collects rubbish from the village (Swiss laws do not allow dumping anywhere in the mountains), and brings building materials to households. It takes elderly villagers to shops and carries their shopping up the hill to their homes. More a friend than just a means of transportation, for the dwellers of mountain villages the postbus is an essential part of life.

Report on LED Star Making Workshop

Organized by the Department of Electronics, Prajyoti Niketan College, Pudukad

Date: 27th and 28th November 2023

The Department of Electronics at Prajyoti Niketan College, Pudukad, successfully conducted a hands-on LED Star Making Workshop on the 27th and 28th of November 2023. This initiative aimed to foster creativity and enhance practical skills among the students, encouraging them to apply their theoretical knowledge in a productive and innovative way.

The workshop was expertly led by Dr. Fijo Jose, a dedicated faculty member of the department, who guided the students through the entire process, from basic circuitry to the final assembly of the LED stars. The program received an enthusiastic response, with a significant number of students actively participating and demonstrating their keen interest in electronics and DIY projects.

Workshop Highlights:

1. Introduction to LED Circuits: Dr. Fijo Jose introduced the participants to the basic principles of LED circuitry, including components like resistors, LEDs, and power sources.
2. Hands-on Session: Students were divided into small groups to work on assembling their LED stars. The practical session allowed them to gain hands-on experience in soldering, wiring, and troubleshooting.
3. Quality Check: Each completed LED star underwent a quality check to ensure proper functionality and safety.
4. Exhibition and Sale: The LED stars crafted by the students were showcased in an Exhibition cum Sale held in December. The exhibition attracted visitors from the college and the local community, who appreciated the students' creativity and effort. The LED stars were sold, generating positive feedback and contributing to the department's initiative for skill development and entrepreneurship.

The students gained valuable practical experience in electronic assembly and design. The workshop enhanced students' teamwork, problem-solving skills, and confidence in handling electronic components. The sale of LED stars demonstrated a successful application of classroom knowledge in creating marketable products, aligning with the college's vision of promoting innovation and self-sufficiency among students.

The LED Star Making Workshop was a resounding success, thanks to the leadership of Dr. Fijo Jose and the active participation of the students. The initiative not only provided a platform for experiential learning but also showcased the talents of the students in an entrepreneurial setting. The event exemplified the department's commitment to holistic education by combining technical skills with creative expression.

The Department of Electronics looks forward to organizing more such workshops in the future, aimed at nurturing practical skills and entrepreneurial spirit among students.

The poster features a dark brown background with a large, light brown curved shape on the left side. At the top left is the college logo, a crest with a book and a lamp. To its right is the college name and accreditation information. The main title is in large white letters. Below it is a quote in white. On the left, there are icons for a calendar and a clock, followed by the date and time. On the right, there is a circular portrait of a man with glasses and a mustache, with his name in a dark oval below it. At the bottom center, the organizing department is listed.
